OVERVIEW

Clients count on David's broad real estate transactional and finance experience to develop successful strategies across virtually all classes of commercial real estate.

David regularly advises local and national clients on a wide range of complex commercial real estate challenges, including acquisitions and dispositions, leasing, financing, project development, joint venture structuring, securing entitlements and incentives, and preparing indentures. His practice spans virtually all classes of commercial real estate, including:

- Industrial
- Commercial office
- Multi-family
- Mixed-use projects
- Retail
- Higher education

David is adept at tackling his clients' most complex real estate-related issues at all project phases, from land acquisition, project financing, and tax incentives to leasing and dispositions. Whether clients require deep knowledge on a single, high-profile project or a broad-based approach to handling entire real estate portfolios, David draws on over two decades of private practice to guide clients
