2025 Project Perspectives: Trump 2.0: Recent Federal Actions & Large Infrastructure Projects

In the early months of President Trump's second term, federal policy has shifted dramatically through a wave of executive actions. Kyle Gilster and Cortney Morgan outline how these changes are impacting infrastructure and development projects nationwide. Key developments include aggressive tariffs affecting supply chains, a pivot toward fossil fuel initiatives, attempts to freeze clean energy funding, and a renewed emphasis on public-private partnerships. With renewable energy facing new constraints under the One Big Beautiful Bill Act, stakeholders must stay alert to evolving funding and regulatory landscapes.
