Husch Blackwell Advises Mid-South Electric Cooperative in Sale of Fiber Business to Lyte Fiber

National law firm Husch Blackwell represented Mid-South Electric Cooperative Association in the sale of its fiber business, MidSouth Fiber Internet, to Lyte Fiber, LLC.

MidSouth Fiber Internet operates a fiber-optic broadband network providing internet and communications services to homes and businesses. The transaction will transition the fiber business to Lyte Fiber while Mid-South Electric Cooperative continues to focus on its core electric cooperative operations.

The acquisition brings MidSouth Fiber Internet's established residential and business fiber network across Brazos, Grimes, Madison, Montgomery, Walker, and Waller counties into Lyte Fiber's Texas footprint. With the transaction complete, the combined company is on track to pass more than 100,000 homes and businesses and serve approximately 25,000 subscribers by the end of 2026.

The Husch Blackwell team was led by John Moore and included Lindy Martinez (corporate/M&A), Keilan Kabalaoui (corporate/M&A; energy), Jason Reschly (tax), Mike Long (telecommunications), Wendy Arends (antitrust), Tommy Benson (benefits and compensation), Scott LeBlanc (labor and employment), Megan Irwin (environmental), and Kris Kappel (intellectual property).
