Husch Blackwell represented Mies Family Foods, a Kansas City, Kansas-based distributor of fresh and frozen proteins and foodservice products, in its sale to Quirch Foods, LLC, a portfolio company of Palladium Equity Partners.

Founded in 1968, Mies Family Foods serves retailers, specialty meat shops, restaurants, and other businesses throughout the Kansas City metropolitan area and surrounding Midwest markets. The company's operations include a 79,000-square-foot cold storage facility and a fleet of 20 refrigerated trucks.

The acquisition strengthens Quirch Foods' Midwest presence, combining Mies Family Foods' longstanding customer relationships and local market expertise with Quirch's national distribution network and extensive product portfolio.

The Husch Blackwell team was led by partner Ed Wilson and included attorneys Chris Kline (real estate), Kenyon Briggs (corporate/M&A), Brenden Buford (corporate/M&A), Sydney Hoffman (corporate/M&A), Phil Cole (corporate/M&A), Jack Rellihan (benefits and compensation), Nick Kenney (banking and finance), Jacob Stephens (tax), Catarina Colón (employment) and Paige Reese (intellectual property).
