Husch Blackwell Relocates Denver Office to Union Tower West

Husch Blackwell is proud to announce that its Denver office will relocate to Union Tower West effective Monday, March 13, 2017. The firm first made public its intent to move into its new space in May 2016, signing the first lease for space at Union Tower West, a 100,000 square-foot, mixed-use development located just behind Denver’s Union Station.

The firm will occupy over 36,000 square feet at Union Tower West, reflecting the rapid growth of the Denver office. According to the Denver Business Journal’s 2017 law firm rankings, Husch Blackwell is ranked among Denver’s largest 20 law offices. Husch Blackwell first opened its Denver office in 2008.

“We are very excited about the move,” said Kevin Kelley, Husch Blackwell’s Denver Office Managing Partner. “It is a milestone illustrating how far our firm has come in Denver, and this investment also demonstrates our commitment to and involvement in this community.”

The firm’s Denver office currently has nearly 50 attorneys whose varied practices include all six of the firm’s industry-focused groups.
