

NEWS RELEASES

PUBLISHED: JANUARY 3, 2017

Service

Solar Energy

Industry

Energy & Natural Resources

Professional

JASON A. RESCHLY

KANSAS CITY:

816.983.8170

JASON.RESCHLY@

HUSCHBLACKWELL.COM

Husch Blackwell Wraps Up 2016-17 Texas Solar Industry Webinar Series

Husch Blackwell will hold the fifth and final installment of its 2016-17 Texas Solar Industry webinar series on Tuesday, January 10, 2017. The one-hour program will begin at noon and is titled “Buy-In: Solar Development Finance and the Investor Tax Credit.” As with each of the installments of the series, the Texas Renewable Energy Industries Alliance (TREIA) will serve as the program’s co-host.

This final program of the season will feature Husch Blackwell partner Jason Reschly and associate Chauncey Lane. They will explore numerous topics in connection with solar development finance, including:

Tax requirements to qualify for solar tax credits

Tax issues for structuring transactions

Trends in solar project finance and a forecast for 2017

Implications of changing tax credit structures

The program aims to provide the audience with real-world insight and is targeted toward renewable developers, oil and gas companies, solar service providers, public officials, investment banks, private equity companies, environmental entities, general counsel, development consultants and service providers and members of the press who cover renewable energy.

This program is complimentary; however, registration is required. Continuing legal education credit for the program is pending for California, Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Tennessee, Texas and Wisconsin.

Prior installments of the 2016-17 Texas Solar Industry webinar series are available on demand:

The Environmental Landscape: Policies and Permitting Requirements Impacting Texas Solar Development

On the Horizon: Solar Development in Texas - Solar Leases and Mineral Right Issues

On the Horizon: Solar Development in Texas - Expanding Solar Through Storage

On the Horizon: Solar Developments in Texas - Texas Legislative and Regulatory Preview