World Trademark Review's WTR 1000 Names Chicoine and Nemes from Missouri

Husch Blackwell is pleased to announce that Caroline Chicoine and Alan S. Nemes have been ranked in World Trademark Review's 2021 edition of the WTR 1000 in Missouri.

"With over 700 attorneys spread across an office network that runs virtually coast to coast, Husch Blackwell is a well-resourced full-service commercial outfit. In all its practice areas, including trademarks, it adopts an industry-focused approach, enabling it to accurately target advice at the business issues facing clients in their competitive markets," WTR noted in its editorial on the WTR 1000 Missouri rankings.

"Nemes has in-house experience on a résumé otherwise filled with impressive work examples from private practice; more than just an external representative, he works hand in glove with clients to make their lives a whole lot easier from a brand protection and value enhancement perspective," WTR continued. "Having spent 25 years in the game, Chicoine is a font of insight and analysis when it comes to trademark selection, prosecution and traditional but especially online enforcement."

Now in its eleventh year, the WTR 1000 shines a spotlight on the firms and individuals that are deemed outstanding in this critical area of practice. Individual practitioners, law firms and trademark attorney practices qualify for inclusion in the WTR 1000 solely on receiving sufficient positive feedback from market sources. The extensive research process was conducted over a four-month period by a team of full-time analysts and involved over 1,700 telephone interviews with trademark specialists across the globe.
