Husch Blackwell Earns Well Workplace Platinum Award

National law firm Husch Blackwell is pleased to announce The Wellness Council of America (WELCOA) is recognizing the firm with a national three-year Well Workplace Platinum Award.

The Well Workplace Awards recognize organizations that have built successful employee wellness programs as defined by WELCOA's 7 Benchmarks. Husch Blackwell is one of three employers awarded platinum status in Q2 2023—entities that “have distinguished themselves as leaders and innovators in workplace health promotion.”

WELCOA notes Husch Blackwell “prioritizes employee well-being by offering innovative virtual work options, integrating DE&I into every aspect of their work, providing support throughout the career journey, and through their Total Health program, which empowers employees to achieve their personal health goals while creating a culture of well-being by offering a variety of wellness programs and services.”

“We are honored and immensely proud the firm received this recognition,” said Kim Lepera, Husch Blackwell’s Wellness Program Manager. “This award reaffirms our belief in the transformative power of investing in the health and happiness of our employees.”

With a 30-year history and more than 4,000 corporate members, WELCOA helps business and health professionals improve employee well-being and create healthier organizational cultures.
