Husch Blackwell Named a Finalist for Best Law Firm of the Year by The American Lawyer

National law firm Husch Blackwell is pleased to announce that, after being nominated by the judges, it was one of only eight elite firms considered for the 2023 Best Law Firm of the Year award by The American Lawyer.

The Best Law Firm of the Year list recognizes law firms that had an exceptional year across service offerings, netting big wins and demonstrating strong financial performance, but also showing commitment to other important areas of focus, such as pro bono, diversity, or innovation in how legal services are delivered.

"We're grateful to The American Lawyer for recognizing Husch Blackwell among the top law firms of the year," said Paul Eberle, Husch Blackwell's chief executive. "Our success comes from aligning everything we do with our clients' interests, including our compensation model, our embrace of alternative fees and strategic pricing, our industry-driven structure, and our ongoing investment in the talent experience, including the firm's commitment to the work-from-anywhere model."

In addition to the listing, Husch Blackwell was prominently featured in an April 2023 webinar hosted by The American Lawyer. The webinar coincided with the release of the Am Law 100 list, which saw Husch Blackwell rise to No. 81, and discussed trends and insights from the data it compiled from the top 100 revenue grossing firms. The firm was highlighted in a segment kicked off by The American Lawyer Editor-in-Chief Gina Passarella, who placed Husch Blackwell among "firms that deserve a shoutout."
