OVERVIEW

Jack assists attorneys in the Healthcare, Life Sciences, & Education unit with employment-based permanent residence petitions, including EB2s (national interest waivers) and EB1as and EB1bs, as well as Form I-129 filings, including O1s.

Jack has been doing legal work for five years, drawing on his life-long interest in the sciences and history, which is a valuable asset to him professionally. He holds a B.Sc. in History and Anthropology and an ABA-accredited legal studies certificate from Illinois State University.

His educational background and insatiable curiosity make him eager to learn about the varied clients of Husch Blackwell. He considers it a privilege to be able to help support efforts to maintain global scientific talent here in the U.S.
