OVERVIEW

Oluoma is a commercial litigation attorney who represents shippers, carriers, brokers, and intermediaries in litigation. Many of these cases involve the Carmack Amendment, the Federal Aviation Administration Authorization Act (FAAAA), and the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act (COGSA), as well as the liability limitations these laws establish.

She brings more than a decade of diverse litigation experience to her practice, including automobile products liability, commercial disputes, insurance coverage and defense, healthcare fraud litigation, and other complex matters. Her experience across industries and client types gives her a versatile perspective and well-rounded approach to advocacy. She handles matters from pre-litigation through discovery and motion practice and, when needed, through trial or settlement.

Oluoma begins each matter by understanding the client's goals, expectations, and preferred approach. She then assesses the facts, key players, and strengths and challenges of the case to develop a strategy for moving the matter forward. Her approach is tailored to each client and focused on achieving the desired outcome.

Drawn to litigation because it combines advocacy with the opportunity to make a meaningful difference, Oluoma enjoys the
