Over a more-than-25-year career at Husch Blackwell, Angela Quinn has helped both the firm and its clients achieve extraordinary results through her consistent focus on serving client needs.

As chief operating officer, Angela oversees all legal and business operations that impact the client experience, including lateral and strategic growth. Angela also initiated Husch Blackwell's extensive use of client surveys, the firm's Legal Project Management Program, and the movement to a compensation system that rewards client-focused collaboration. Husch Blackwell has been named a Value Champion by the Association of Corporate Counsel three different times since Angela assumed a business role at the firm.

Before being appointed COO, Angela spent seven years as the firm's chief client officer.

Arriving at Husch Blackwell as an associate in 2000, Angela became a partner and highly successful trial attorney. She left the practice of law to become the director of the firm's Healthcare, Life

HUSCH BLACKWELL

Featured Experience

Award-Winning Collaboration Delivers Greater Value to Client

The Husch Blackwell team members partnered with client Express Scripts Inc. on an innovative program designed to cut spending, improve predictability and achieve better legal outcomes. The team reviewed 16 years of cases to glean insights into how future matters could be handled more efficiently. This included development of process maps for litigation, assignment maps and work streams, automated budget tracking and an online collaboration portal.

Over four years, as the number of litigation matters rose by 35 percent, the time spent per matter dropped by 39 percent. The Husch Blackwell/Express Scripts collaboration was recognized as a Value Champion in 2017 by the Association of Corporate Counsel (ACC).
