OVERVIEW

Brandon delves into documents to find the facts attorneys and clients need to bolster their cases.

When the litigation process is challenging, attorneys trust Brandon to pull facts together and find rigorous information. He prides himself on locating key information that lawyers can use to help clients by investigating social media, medical records and public records. His passion for research and writing originally led him to paralegal work, and now inspires his goal of becoming the go-to paralegal for litigation involving complex eDiscovery work.

Brandon has extensive experience assisting attorneys in the defense of toxic tort and product liability claims as well as on labor and employment cases. In addition to facilitating large-scale document productions, Brandon prepares various legal documents that his team produces, such as responsive pleadings, dispositive motions and discovery responses. He also manages incoming and outgoing filings in hundreds of active cases.
