OVERVIEW

As a licensing specialist and paralegal, Mart has the knowledge and experience necessary to ensure that client businesses can thrive.

With a background as a corporate paralegal for the world's largest brewer, Mart knows the legal issues affecting the alcohol and beverage industry inside and out. She spent seven years working in product approval, learning the immensely complex world of alcohol regulations. She also had the opportunity to develop close working relationships with government officials as she registered products with state liquor agencies across the country.

Today, Mart manages client liquor licenses throughout the continental U.S. It's a role that requires her to know and understand the intricacies of each state's licensing laws, which differ even between counties. Mart is known for her ability to manage complex details, and clients trust her to protect their ability to do business across the U.S.
