OVERVIEW

Alexis is a commercial litigator whose goal is to be prepared for anything. She practices from East Islip, New York as a member of our virtual office, The Link.

Alexis focuses her practice on the defense of no-fault insurance matters, especially those under New York law. She launched her legal career at a small firm that concentrated entirely on these cases, giving her an opportunity early on to immerse herself in this niche area of law. Her first role there involved near-daily court appearances, and Alexis became extensively familiar with the court system and with trial strategies. Currently, she spends much of her time helping a major rental company manage hundreds of insurance defense cases in New York venues.

With a longstanding fascination with law, Alexis always knew litigation was the best fit for her career: she loves the intensity, the fast pace and the quick thinking her cases demand. Most of all, though, she loves winning and achieving victories for clients.

Alexis is known as detail-oriented professional with a reputation for knowing every inch of a case file. Her motto in life and in court is, “Always be prepared for everything.” As a result, she pores over discovery documents and briefs, ensuring she’s extensively familiar with the case facts and with any submissions from plaintiffs. It’s a practice that serves her well in litigation: she’s rarely surprised and is prepared to answer any argument, swaying courts to the client’s position.
