OVERVIEW

Peter supports national coordinating counsel teams for asbestos litigation and toxic tort matters.

With nearly 20 years of experience in law firms, Peter enjoys digging into cases and learning about clients and various legal issues. He has focused his career on toxic tort since 2015, serving on national coordinating counsel teams for much of that time.

Much of Peter's work is devoted to a multinational conglomerate company he has also served at a previous firm. However, he supports other major clients as well and is very familiar with busy, nationwide dockets and litigation filed from coast to coast. He is particularly experienced in settlement processing and works frequently with a variety of settlement matters. Peter also routinely handles Medicare reporting and related billing questions—he especially excels at financial and billing details after his role as a budget analyst at a prior firm.

Peter is known for his deeply analytical mind and his attention to detail. He also has a reputation as an even-keeled source of calm in the midst of complex cases, unexpected challenges and busy dockets.
