OVERVIEW

Jack provides regulatory compliance advice to sophisticated healthcare clients.

As a law student, Jack's eyes were opened to the vast field of healthcare law by an editorial position with the American Journal of Law and Medicine. As a law clerk at Husch Blackwell, Jack quickly discovered how much he enjoyed working with physicians and other healthcare providers, as well as with complex, sophisticated hospital systems.

Today, Jack works closely with senior attorneys on responses to subpoenas for patient records, drafting and updating essential contracts, and researching complex issues. Jack's goal is for clients to feel that matters left in his hands are completely off their worry list. He'll focus on the law and ensure that clients remain in compliance, while they focus on patient care.
