OVERVIEW

Becca's integration of high-level analysis and case advocacy, since she began her legal career in 1998, is an asset for the attorneys and clients she serves.

Becca has worked in-house, as well as for solo practitioners and large international law firms in Massachusetts, Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, California, and Missouri. Her experience is focused on litigation and also includes intellectual property, corporate, immigration, personal injury, and family law. Whether supporting a plaintiff or defense firm, she assesses each case as its unique entity and provides tailored support to the attorney. Her natural curiosity and joy of investigation allows Becca to consume a large variety of data and summarize it into a compact work product that benefits the case strategy.

Becca understands the emotional value of serving the firm's clients and appreciates making true connections with those she encounters. She is fueled by community service, especially when it involves animal rescue. This innate compassion allows her to see past the documents and understand the "why" behind opposing parties' actions.
