OVERVIEW

Dimitri assists clients with international trade and tax matters.

Dimitri's practice centers on Customs compliance, trade remedies, and sophisticated cross-border regulatory strategy. He counsels U.S. and foreign clients on a wide range of complex trade issues, including antidumping and countervailing duty investigations, Section 301 and 232 tariffs, IEEPA compliance, country-of-origin determinations, scope rulings, and Customs enforcement proceedings. Dimitri helps clients proactively identify regulatory risks, reduce duty liabilities, and succeed in an increasingly complicated global regulatory environment. He is a skilled advocate for his clients before the U.S. Department of Commerce, U.S. International Trade Commission, and U.S. Customs and Border Protection, and the Court of International Trade.

Beyond his trade practice, Dimitri advises clients in the renewable energy industry on tax matters related to mergers, acquisitions, corporate transactions, and the purchase and sale of renewable energy tax credits.

With a strong academic background in mathematics and economics, Dimitri applies a quantitative, analytical mindset to legal problem-solving. This enables him to break down complex trade and tax challenges and craft targeted, data-driven strategies for clients. His rigorous technical training enhances his legal acumen, equipping him to guide clients with clarity and assurance in high-stakes matters.

Originally from Piraeus, Greece, Dimitri brings a truly international perspective and a deep understanding of U.S. regulatory frameworks. His combination of global insight and technical knowledge allows him to
