OVERVIEW

A dedicated and personable litigator, Aubrey represents clients in complex commercial litigation and personal injury defense.

Aubrey represents clients in complex commercial litigation, handling a wide range of business disputes such as construction, political law, shareholder issues, product liability, and personal injury defense for clients across diverse industries. Notably, she serves as national coordinating counsel for a public transportation company in its defense of personal injury matters in high-risk jurisdictions across the country. Aubrey excels at developing strategies that align with clients' broader goals and is committed to finding the least contentious path to a favorable outcome.

While many of Aubrey's cases are resolved through settlement, mediation, or other forms of alternative dispute resolution, she especially excels at trial advocacy. Aubrey has second-chaired a bench trial, achieving dismissal of a counter claim. Her gift for reading people and situations makes her highly adept at adjusting strategies in real time during court proceedings.

Known for her calm and analytical presence, Aubrey effectively manages stressful situations and is deeply committed to her clients and individuals involved in each case. Aubrey has a reputation for her remarkable ability to diffuse tension in high-pressure situations. Clients value and appreciate Aubrey's proactive communication and genuine care for their legal and personal needs.
