OVERVIEW

Jessica assists clients with estate planning and related needs.

With a background in accounting, Jessica brings a meticulous eye for detail and a knack for problem-solving which translates seamlessly to her work in private wealth and estate planning. She discovered her passion for the estate planning field in law school when she was particularly drawn to her tax, accounting, and estate law classes, not only for their intricate yet logical nature but also for the significant personal impact these areas have on others.

Jessica is motivated by the opportunity to assist families in navigating complex issues, ensuring their needs are met and their futures secured. Clients find that Jessica carefully listens and considers their unique needs and finds solutions to even the most intricate problems. Her considerate approach, coupled with her hardworking nature, positions her as a reliable and trusted attorney.
