OVERVIEW

Nick fights for companies in the consumer financial services industry in litigation matters at the trial and appellate level. He practices from Fort Lauderdale, Florida as a member of our virtual office, The Link.

Nick defends companies across the full spectrum of consumer financial services space, from mortgage lending and credit card, to auto finance and retail banking. He regularly addresses claims under a wide range of state and federal laws, including the Fair Credit Reporting Act; Electronic Funds Transfer Act; Telephone Consumer Protection Act; Uniform Commercial Code; Fair Debt Collection Practices Act; Truth in Lending Act; Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act; and Unfair, Deceptive, and Abusive Acts and Practices prohibitions.

Recently, Nick has been particularly active in the fintech space and navigating the unique challenges this sector presents. Nick has also handled specialized matters involving wire fraud, check fraud, identity theft, elder financial exploitation, and other types of financial fraud.

Nick primarily handles clients' Florida portfolios. It's a jurisdiction known for its active and sophisticated consumer bar, and nearly 15 years of practice in the state have made him nimble in adapting strategies to Florida's unique litigation environment.

Nick knew he wanted to be a litigator as early as high school and college: experience on the debate team sparked a passion for advocacy, and the skills developed there—thorough research, careful preparation, and clear communication—now shape his approach to litigation. Nick tends to be the most prepared attorney in any courtroom, and he has extensive experience in both trial and appellate courts at both the state and federal level, and in arbitration. He especially loves the challenge of presenting and defending complex arguments before appellate judges and has played a role in shaping favorable new law by securing first decisions and precedential opinions on emerging issues in consumer finance—a track record that often leads to future victories.

Nick brings deep knowledge of the industry and a clear understanding of when to advance a case and when to resolve it. Clients can rely on him to approach each matter with a practical mindset and a commitment to achieving results.
