OVERVIEW

Faisal guides clients through the stress of complex business disputes and litigation.

A commercial litigator, Faisal handles a broad range of matters, from breach of contract, misappropriation of trade secrets, and shareholder disagreements to product, premises, or professional liability cases. With experience in every phase of litigation, Faisal is always ready for trial and has represented clients of all sizes, from major corporations to small businesses. No matter the industry or the complexity of the dispute, Faisal is prepared to manage the process from start to finish.

Faisal's longstanding interest in litigation was confirmed when he watched an in-house counsel at a previous workplace respond quickly and effectively to a lawsuit. He was drawn to the idea of stepping in during high-pressure situations and resolving matters that are critical to a business's future. After earning his J.D., Faisal went on to represent multiple small business owners, where he saw firsthand how litigation can affect every aspect of a company and recognized how important it is to reach a resolution that supports long-term stability. Faisal knows that clients are facing an immensely stressful situation—with the future of their business potentially hanging in the balance—and he wants them to know that he cares as much about their cases as they do.

Faisal makes it a priority to be available and accessible to clients, encouraging open communication and making it easy for them to reach out at any time with any question. He works to ensure that they understand the legal process and his strategy, reassuring them that their matters are in good hands. With a knack for understanding each situation from the client's point of view, Faisal resolves cases as quickly and efficiently as possible so businesses can move forward.
