Asian American Bar Association of Kansas City to Host Indian Supreme Court Judge at Husch Blackwell

The Asian American Bar Association of Kansas City (AABAKC) will host an evening with the Honorable Kurian Joseph of the Supreme Court of India on Monday, June 6, at 5 p.m. at Husch Blackwell, 4801 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.

Joseph, who began his legal practice in 1979 in the High Court of Kerala, was elevated to Judge of the Supreme Court of India in 2013. He will speak about his life experiences and answer audience questions. A reception will follow his presentation. The event is free and open to the public, but registration is required.

AABAKC is a nonprofit organization of attorneys, judges, law students and civic leaders in the Kansas City community who are committed to the representation of Asian-American interests in the legal profession.
