Husch Blackwell Welcomes Labor & Employment Associate Chad Grell To Denver Office

Husch Blackwell welcomed Chad Grell to its Denver office in early January.

Grell, an associate in the firm's Healthcare, Life Science & Education group, focuses on labor and employment matters, handling all facets of employment-related litigation. He represents employers before a variety of courts and administrative agencies in wage and hour disputes, discrimination and retaliation claims, and other employment-related conflicts. He has a wide range of knowledge regarding statutory, regulatory and common law employment matters, and has ample experience investigating, understanding and resolving employment disputes.

Grell is an active member of both the Denver Bar Association and the Colorado Bar Association. He obtained his J.D. from University of Denver Sturm College of Law (2009) and his B.A. from St. Olaf College (2001).
