Husch Blackwell Attorneys to Participate in International Trade Conference

Husch Blackwell is pleased to announce that the firm will co-present and participate in the 2nd Annual International Trade Conference, held at The Thompson Center at the University of Nebraska at Omaha on Thursday, March 9, 2017. The conference, titled “Identifying Opportunities in Volatile Global Markets,” is co-presented with Salama International, the Omaha-based consulting and trade services company.

Husch Blackwell partners Jeffrey Neeley and Mark Grider and associate Grant Leach will speak at the conference in separate sessions on the topics of current political developments impacting international trade, overseas government investigations, and export sanctions and anti-corruption enforcement.

The conference program will run from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., and admission to the conference is free with registration.
