

PRODUCT SAFETY

Your products receive our end-to-end proactive attention, from compliance issues through labeling consumer goods for market – always adhering to ever-changing safety regulations. Your reporting requirements, ethical considerations, product warnings, warranties and instructions, and submissions and complaint responses related to the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) are matters on which we assist. We help companies comply with state, federal, and international regulations, as well as industry and consensus standards. Our attorneys counsel clients on the development of new products and product lines, including formation of internal compliance programs.

In addition to our proactive work, we also guide clients through incident investigations, audits, recalls, and other corrective actions across a wide variety of product categories including furniture and mattresses, children's products, technology, and electrical products as well as automotive, explosive, and chemical products.

Manufacturers, distributors, importers, retailers, and trade organizations are among those who rely on our time-sensitive and cost-effective counsel. Composed of nationally recognized attorneys with experience leading product failure investigations, our Product Safety attorneys understand the continual vigilance necessary in protecting your products and reputation.

The advice and service that we get from Husch Blackwell are second to none. We work with several other firms for matters outside of intellectual property, and the experience just simply is not the same. Most importantly, the Husch Blackwell team offers the one thing that all clients are ultimately looking for in an attorney: SUCCESS.
